Introduction

The aim of this guidance will be to provide practical advice to schools and colleges to help them make decisions in relation to gender-questioning children. The guidance will be non-statutory.

Who this is for

The guidance is aimed at:

- Governing bodies of maintained schools (including schools with a sixth form) and non-maintained special schools;
- Trustees or directors of academies and free schools;
- Proprietors of independent schools (including academies and free schools);
- Management committees of pupil referral units (PRUs);
- Teachers, other school staff and school nurses;
- Head teachers, principals, designated safeguarding leads, SENCOs, and senior leadership teams;
- Diocese and other faith representatives involved in the management and supervision of schools; and
- for reference for relevant local authority staff.

The guidance is also aimed at institutions within the “further education sector”, defined by the Further and Higher Education Act 1992, comprising:

- further education colleges;
- sixth-form colleges;
- institutions designated as being within the further education sector by that Act.

These bodies have obligations under Part 6 of the Equality Act and are referred to as ‘colleges.’

Issue date

The consultation was issued on 19th December 2023.

The response

The results of the consultation and the department's response will be published on GOV.UK in 2024.
About this consultation

The Department is seeking views on the following:

The consultation is seeking views on the content of the guidance and whether it will help to support schools and colleges, teachers and leaders to make considered and lawful decisions in relation to children who are questioning their gender and the wider school and college community.

Rationale and guiding principles

The aim of this guidance is to support schools and colleges when making decisions in the interest of the child, taking into account the interests of the wider school and college community. Within that context, we have carefully considered where a school or college may require guidance and direction on the issues arising in relation to children who are questioning their gender.

This guidance provides practical advice, which we expect schools and colleges to follow in response to requests for changes from children who are questioning their gender. It aims to support them to make lawful decisions based on individual circumstances. It will also help parents understand what schools and colleges can and can’t accommodate.

This guidance focuses on how gender questioning children are treated whilst they are at school or college, it does not cover what children are taught about the topic of gender reassignment. The Department will include further guidance on this teaching as part of its updated statutory guidance on relationships, sex and health education (RSHE). A draft of the revised RSHE statutory guidance will be subject to a separate consultation, which we will publish at the earliest opportunity.

We are particularly seeking views through this consultation to test whether the scope of the guidance is right, and whether it covers all the necessary considerations for schools and colleges. We are also seeking views on whether the guidance provides enough practical support for schools and colleges.

Please read the draft guidance before completing the questions below

Privacy and Confidentiality

Privacy Notice

The personal data (name and address and any other identifying material) that you provide in response to this consultation is processed by the Department for Education as a data controller in accordance with the UK GDPR and Data Protection Act 2018, and your personal information will only be used for the purposes of this consultation. The Department for Education relies upon the lawful basis of article 6 (1) (e) of the UK GDPR, which allows us to process personal data when this is necessary for conducting consultations as part of our function. We may share information we hold about you with certain organisations, where the law allows it or we have a legal obligation to do so. There may be some circumstances where we’ll need to share information about you with others without your consent. For example, this might be to prevent or detect a crime, or to produce anonymised statistics for research purposes. In all cases, we’ll comply with the Data Protection Act 2018.

The personal information will be retained for a period of 12 months following the closure of the consultation period, after which it will be securely destroyed. You can read more about what the Department for Education does when we ask for and hold your personal information in our personal information charter, which can be found here: Personal information charter - Department for Education - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk)

Confidentiality Notice

Information provided in response to consultations, including personal information, may be subject to publication or disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act 2000, the Data Protection Act 2018 or the Environmental Information Regulations 2004. If you want all, or any part, of a response to be treated as confidential, please explain why you consider it to be confidential. If a request for disclosure of the information you have provided is received, your explanation about why you consider it confidential will be taken into account, but no assurance can be given that confidentiality can be maintained. An automatic confidentiality disclaimer generated by your IT system will not, of itself, be regarded as binding on the Department.
